FDR TO STAND
PAT ON BUDGET
AND FARM FUND

9 Millions For Agriculture No More Than Enough, He Says

FARM BILL NOW
PENDING IN HOUSE

Makes No Mention of Possible Veto If Congress Makes Cut

(By Associated Press)
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Feb. 2.—President Roosevelt told reporters in firm tones today he was standing on his budget and a $900,000,000 agricultural appropriation for the year beginning July 1.

He said the house appropriations committee, which slashed the farm appropriation bill 20 per cent below budget estimates, had made perfectly terrific cuts. The bill is pending in the house.

Volunteering to discuss the agricultural appropriations at a press conference in the library of his home here, Mr. Roosevelt said he saw no reason why some excerpts from his budget message should not be reprinted.

Reads Excerpts

He had had some excerpts typed out, and he read them to the newsmen. They said:

"I have carefully checked the individual estimates under these broad categories and I am satisfied that no lower figures can be attained except at the expense of impairing the efficiency with which laws are administered or of working undue hardship upon individuals or economic groups. I refuse to accept the responsibility of adopting either alternative.

"We must not only guard the gains we have made but we must press on to obtain full employment for those who have been displaced by machines as well as for the 5,000,000 net addition to the labor force since 1929. We must therefore avoid the danger of too drastic or too sudden a curtailment of government support."

President Roosevelt arrived at his home here early today to spend the weekend.

"Barely Sufficient"

Another of the presidential excerpts read:

"I do not believe that the majority of people feel that the agricultural program should be reduced below the figure of $900,000,000 because this figure, in itself a large reduction below the current year, will be barely sufficient to carry out soil protection and surplus removal operations."

While Mr. Roosevelt obviously felt those paragraphs applied with particular force to the reductions made in the agricultural appropriation, he told reporters he had nothing to add to what already had been said.

He made no mention of a possibility of a veto should congress enact a bill carrying substantially less than the budget recommended for government agricultural activities.

Farm belt congressmen have been talking of trying to persuade the house to restore at least a part of the appropriations which were whittled away, but many of them were none too confident of success. There were intimations that the president, like some of these legislators, were hopeful that the senate would do something about restoring the cuts.

Girl Is Injured; Accidents Few In Spite of Highway Hazards

Snow, with temperatures ranging from 8 to 20 above, returned to Ohio today.

After several days of "normal" winter weather a sleet storm, which later turned to snow, swept the state last night, making driving conditions hazardous.

Highways in the district were ice covered and the state highway station here reported many cars in ditches. The Lisbon road and Route 62 north of Salem were reported exceptionally treacherous.

However, the only accident in which an injury was reported occurred at 2 p. m. yesterday when Dorothy Mae Raub, eight-year-old Goshen school pupil, was struck by a car after alighting from a school bus.

Driver Pays Fine

Driver of the machine, William Toth, 22, of Pittsburgh, was arrested by State Patrolman James White on an affidavit filed by Warren Townsend, R. D. 1, Salem, driver of the school bus. Arraigned before Justice F. O. Brooks at Sebring, Toth was fined $10 and costs for passing a school bus which had stopped to discharge passengers.

The little girl, who was with her sister, Lois Jane Raub, 6, was knocked to the pavement when given a glancing blow by Toth's car. She was treated by a Sebring doctor for numerous bruise burns and an injury to her right shoulder which may be a fracture. Her sister was unhurt.

A small girl who refused to give her name but who said she lived at 247 N. Madison ave. ran into the side of an automobile driven by Galen Duncan of 729 E. Fourth st., at 3:40 p. m. yesterday, police said. Duncan reported the child was not injured. The accident happened at N. Lincoln ave. and Sugartree court.

Ten Ohio Flying Cadets Advanced To Final Course

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex., Feb. 2.—Ten Ohio Flying cadets are included in a class scheduled to be transferred from Randolph field, the "West Point of the Air," to the advanced U. S. army flying school at Kelly field early this month.

Among the Ohio student pilots is Gordon F. Keyes, Jr., of Salem. At Kelly field the cadets will be given a final three months of flight instruction before being commissioned as second lieutenants in the air corps reserve.

Transfer to the advanced flying school is the last step in their aerial career before being graduated as full-fledged military airplane pilots. Ahead lies an opportunity to win a permanent position in the air corps or as much as seven years of active duty with either a pursuit, bombardment or observation squadron.

In either case, three years after graduation, the Flying Cadets will be promoted to first lieutenants with a corresponding increase in pay.

January Sub-Zero Weather Coldest In Eleven Years

Last month, with a mean temperature of 15.8 degrees, was the coldest January in the history of the Millport station since 1918, according to Lawrence H. Copeland of Millport, U. S. cooperative weather observer in the county.

Predicting continued cold in February, with plenty of snow, Copeland said there were only two days of thaw last month, while there were ten nights of sub-zero weather. In January, 1918, the mean temperature reading was 13.1.

With reference to February, the observer added a word of cheer in predicting that there would be little sub-zero weather. "We await the groundhog's prediction today," he said.

The minimum reading last month was 12 below zero, compared to one below a year ago. The maximum was 48 against 61 of January, 1939. The 12-below reading last month was made on the 19th. A thunderstorm was recorded Jan. 14. There was only a 20 per cent

Prosecuting Attorney Confers With Police Here

Stouffer said he believed the quartet to be confederates of a Mahoning county man recently arrested by deputy sheriffs.

"I've been threatened before," he added, "and I've got a 45 automatic, a 22 and 32 and a shotgun—a small arsenal—and they're not going to scare me by looking cross-wise out of their warped faces."

SOVIET BEGINS NEW ATTACK ON ISTHMUS FRONT

Tanks, Following Battery Barrage, Seek to Crack Mannerheim Line

REPORT FINNISH DEFENSE HOLDING

Balkan Entente, Meanwhile, Opens Parley On Security Plans

(By Associated Press)

Russian forces today sought to crack Finland's Mannerheim line from behind a screen of steel-clad sledges pushed by tanks over the hard-packed snow of the Karelian isthmus from.

But even these new tactics, unveiled as a surprise after six hours of old-fashioned artillery pounding of the Finnish defenses, were said by the Finns to be of no avail.

Continued fighting was Soviet Russia's only answer to yesterday's offer by Finland's president, Kyosti Kallio, of "an honorable peace."

The Russians opened their attack on the isthmus yesterday in the vicinity of Summa, 20 miles from the strategic seaport of Viipuri, with the intensive artillery preparation.

Hit By Air and Land

Then came a correlated land and air assault—130 warplanes operating above while infantrymen charged in the wake of tanks which were protected by machine-guns and riflemen on the armored sledges.

While the fighting lasted through the night, Finns said their lines held while their own artillerymen silenced 15 Russian batteries and created havoc among the invading columns.

Helsinki's populace tumbled out of beds five minutes after midnight when air raid sirens screamed but no planes were seen and the alarm was cleared 20 minutes later. Sirens sounded again in the afternoon but anti-aircraft fire drove off 10 raiders.

Russia's invasion drew the following pronouncement from the famed woodchopper of Doorn—former Kaiser Wilhelm:

"The belligerents (Germany, France and Great Britain) should stop fighting and join their forces to help the Finns. They should fight in one line to rid the world and civilization of Bolshevism."

Balkans Seek Peace

Keeping their own peace was the problem before the Balkan entente conference opening today in Belgrade at a time when southeastern Europe is being wooed by the belligerents for valuable supplies.

The four members of the entente are Roumania, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia and one of the proposals to be discussed is the stabilizing of their trade with the belligerents at pre-war levels.

By this scheme they would seek to avoid antagonizing one side in the European conflict by submitting to pressure from the other for concessions.

GROUNDHOG DAY IN 1940

The groundhog legend, having been overworked by people who need something to write and talk about, might as well be left in cold storage this year. There's a more important matter than weather to be decided. When our little furred friend takes a squint at the situation this year and decides whether it's worth the effort to give up retirement, commentators who claim to be able to tell about the third term by nature lore will have a golden opportunity.

If Mr. G. scuttles back into his hole in the ground that will mean no third term activity. If he sees his shadow and deduces that everything is going to be rosy now, then will mean everything is set for the big push.

This will put at rest once and for all the prickling suspense of the third term situation. President Roosevelt will say it's ridiculous, of course, but he must admit that it's ridiculous the other way too. His friends, his party and the considerable horde whose job depend on his decision can see no logic in postponement. If their future is going to ride on whimsy they've a right to remind Mr. Roosevelt that the groundhog at least specifies the exact day on which he will tell all.

LIGHTNING AT SEA

With a salt shaker in each hand to season what Berlin says and what London says, a neutral observer still can feel safe in assuming that events in the war at sea have taken a momentous turn.

Germany has brought into full play the third of its available weapons against shipping—the bomber. Hitherto, emphasis has been mostly on submarines and mines, both of which the British say they can handle. At least they proved in the previous war that new ship construction and the convoy system, together with other counter-measures, made it impossible for Germany to win control of the North sea by means available then.

Bombers are something else. While it remains true that every new weapon of attack creates a weapon of defense, there is no sign yet that a defense for sea bombing has been developed. It is as though merchantmen all had been brought within shore artillery range. Bombers make shipping in the North sea as vulnerable as though it were passing through the Dardanelles or the Straits of Gibraltar.

The salt water "blitzkrieg" promises to become the biggest thing turned loose in Europe's newest war.

HAPPINESS

Apologies of atrocity charges being leveled at German administrators of the fuller, richer life in Nazi-occupied Poland, a declaration by Arthur Greiser, German governor of Poznan, Polish district annexed by the reich, is in order.

Gov. Greiser, distinguished photographically by a firm jaw and a glint in his eye, says in an Associated Press interview that the Poles are "much happier under German rule than they ever were under the Polish regime."

What is happiness? Definitions differ. To an American it is one of three companion states—life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. To an orthodox Nazi, happiness might be more like Alexander Pope's much-quoted definition: "Virtue alone is happiness below."

On the virtue basis (Nazi virtue) it's probable the Poles are as happy here below as they can be. If some of them are being assisted to go above, it's done, no doubt, for the sake of giving them more happiness than they could respond to otherwise.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, February 3

AN EXCEEDINGLY active and progressive day, with all business interests moving under high pressure, is read from the prevailing planetary influences. It is a time for bold initiative and enterprise in putting over major projects, particularly in new directions and on entirely new and original lines. The energies, both physical and mental, are under fresh stimuli for accomplishing big and novel ideas and plans, this with the assistance from those in power. But in all agreements and writings be cautious.

Those whose birthday it is are under splendid promise of a year of progress and achievement in new and original lines of endeavor, with the initiative and ingenuity under high tension. These creative and inventive urges will be recognized and supported substantially by influential persons who are able to promote large projects. In all contracts or agreements, however, be careful with signatures and alert to duplicity.

A child born on this day may be bold, audacious and courageous. It may have great initiative and inventive genius, winning support of those in high places for promoting important enterprises.

PLIGHT OF THE BALKANS
By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The powerful Balkan entente—Roumania, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey—is meeting today in belgrade to consider its attitude towards the war between Herr Hitler and the Allies, and if we could sit in at the secret sessions we likely should have a much better idea of the trend of this conflict.

Publicly there may be little more than reaffirmation of neutrality. Privately decisions may be taken which will have a strong bearing on the outcome of the European upheaval.

So much do the Balkans mean both strategically and as a fruitful source of supplies that it wouldn't be surprising to see this rugged zone again become a cockpit for major military operations of the chief belligerents.

Only this week there was confirmation that the Anglo-French allies had concentrated a powerful army in the near east to meet any possible German thrust through the Balkans. It could be used against Russia as well, should occasion arise.

Berlin yesterday charged that the British hoped possibilities for spreading the war would arise at the entente parley. Nazi Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop also declared that neither Germany nor Russia has any intention of carrying the conflict to the Balkans. Whether the entente will feel reassured by Von Ribbentrop's promise would seem very doubtful, especially in view of what is happening in Poland and Finland.

The embattled powers are watching every move of the entente meeting, and the atmosphere surrounding the uneasy conference is sulfurous. For in effect the Allies are saying, and the Nazis are warning: "Come with us and don't get entangled with the other side—or we won't be responsible for the consequences."

The question of boundaries has been of special interest to Roumania and Yugoslavia, both of which are fat as butter with lands acquired from neighbors.

The only Balkan state not in the entente (apart from Albania, which has been swallowed by Italy) is Bulgaria. This hardy land of tough warriors lost territory to Roumania, Yugoslavia and Greece, and has refused to join any fraternity designed to perpetuate those losses.

The chief business of the entente parley will be to achieve unity of purpose among all the states, including Bulgaria. They must get set to meet any contingency.

There can be small doubt at this juncture that the Balkans want to remain neutral. This won't be easy in view of the tremendous interest of both Germany and the Allies in controlling these fiery states.

The position of Roumania is the most critical of any, chiefly because of her petroleum. Germany is demanding oil, and the Allies are warning Roumania not to give it.

Unhappy is the big country without oil these days, but much more unhappy is the little country which has it. The plight of Roumania, which threatens all the Balkans, will figure largely in the entente discussions.

Dr. Clendening Has Hints On "Enjoying" That Cold

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EVERYBODY has a favorite remedy for his common cold. I am in receipt of a good many of these family secrets. My impression is that they do good more or less in proportion to the amount of faith that is placed in the remedy before it is taken.

In preparing these articles on the cold I visited a medical library and read the articles that have been published on the common cold during the last year. I was surprised to find an article in a journal on psy-choanalysis which had to do with the psychic factors in the cause of the common cold. The author found in his experience, and that of other psychoanalysts, that patients who had been psychoanalyzed found that they were largely relieved of their colds after the process.

I do not know that I entirely subscribe to this view, but I think that the mental attitude towards the common cold is very important. If you say, "Oh! my! I have another cold. Isn't it awful?" it is likely to be awful. If you say, "Well, here's a kind of a pleasant feeling of lassitude and sleepiness, a nice opportunity to go to bed for a couple of days and read some of the books that I have been meaning to catch up on," you find that a cold is quite a friend. You don't have to go to the office, or answer phone calls, or go out to dinner or lodge meeting, or lectures on the state of Europe and China. You are generally in a state of heaven. Which, in my opinion, argues for the value of the psychic treatment of the common cold.

Vapor Inhalations

To come down to physical methods of treatment, when a cold is in the bronchial tubes, undoubtedly the use of vapor inhalations is very comforting. It is important that a proper technique be carried out. If, as is usually advised, you put some camphor or compound tincture of benzoin or other aromatic on steaming water in an open pan and put your head under a towel over the steaming basin, you usually excoriate the skin, usually around the nose and mouth. A better way is to have a metal pitcher with steaming hot water in it, throw the compound tincture of benzoin on top of this, cover the top of the pitcher with a towel, but stick in a large, stiff rubber tube. You can then put the end of the tube in your mouth and inhale the fumes without having them injure your skin or irritate your nostrils.

The technique of the mustard foot bath is also important. The water in which the mustard is placed should not be too hot. The mustard volatilizes best in cool or lukewarm water. A teaspoonful of domestic mustard, tied in a little muslin bag, may be allowed to soak in a quart of cool water; when ready add a gallon of water at 110 degrees or 120 degrees. Hot lemonade with this, aspirin and a night in bed will help a lot by morning.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. S.: "Please give me the cause of giant hives. Has diet anything to do with the nasty things?" Answer—giant hives (angio-neurotic oedema) are due to sensitivity usually of foods. They may be due to contact with plants, such as primroses. It often takes a lot of detective ability to detect the exact cause. Elimination of the offending article from the diet is the only known cure.

HIGHWAY CORPS MAKES SAVINGS

Maintenance Payroll Cut During 1939, Figures Reveal

In line with the economy program pledged by Gov. John W. Bricker and Col. Robert S. Beightler, director, Division No. 11 of the Ohio Department of Highways, under the direction of E. R. McCullough, division engineer, was operated with a saving of $53,396.09 for maintenance payroll during the year 1939 as compared with 1938. The saving was accomplished in the various departments and counties including the division garage with C. J. Sproul as superintendent, the division office and the route marking department.

The route marking department with J. C. Edwards as superintendent has centered more than twice the miles of road in 1939 than were used in 1938. The cost was $46.72 per mile in 1939 compared to $103.20 per mile in 1938. Proper route marking is important to promote safety of the highways.

County Saves $3,318.22

Columbiana county with E. O. Harsh as county superintendent operated with a saving of $3,318.22 for maintenance pay rolls in 1939 as compared with 1938.

Careful buying on a competitive basis by the highway purchasing department in Columbus under C. R. Leavens insuring rock bottom prices has also saved substantial amounts.

The sum of these savings has made possible the financing of a state highway WFA $15,100,000 program which the highway department has financed to the extent of $3,400,000 with no additional appropriations or taxes.

This program is operative in all counties where there is a relief list, meaning 70 counties and has employed 11,378 from relief rolls. Construction of 422 miles of county type, secondary roads has been approved 35 miles of which already are under way.

CLEVELAND. — In contradiction to a municipal ordinance the Court of Appeals here has ruled that funeral processions have no right to drive through red traffic lights. ## Concert Group Brings Famed Dancer

A program reflecting intensive study of dance styles and interpretations is to be offered at the High school auditorium Wednesday, Feb. 7, when the Northern Columbiana Concert association presents La Meri, internationally-known American-born dancer, in her "Dances of Many Lands".

Recently brought to the United States for an extensive tour by the Embree Concert Service, Inc., which arranged the Salem appearance, the La Meri program holds a unique distinction in that one woman presents an authentic cross-section of racial dances of several countries.

Unlike other dancers who devote their lives to the study of one form of the dance such as ballet, interpretive, impressionistic or racial dances, La Meri has studied all forms. Results of her studies appear in books which are required reading in leading schools of dramatic art.

The first part of her program presents three aspects of interpretive dances, entitled "Dance Visualizations". The second part comprises Javanese, Indian and Japanese dances preceded by a commentary by Lillian Newcomer, sister of La Meri.

In the third part of the program La Meri displays her finesse in interpreting Spanish dance styles.

The most important number of the group is "Boero of Ravel" in which she scored a distinct triumph on her recent South American tour.

The closing group features the brilliant "Argentinian Gauchito", the ancient Hawaiian "Hula", with a prelude by Lillian Newcomer and Johanna Jurgens; the native Salsot dance of the Philippines; and the novel Tinkling in which she is assisted by two artists.

The La Meri music was recorded in the countries whose dance styles she depicts. It is to be presented here by specially installed sound equipment.

CHICAGO GRAIN

The wheat market responded to scattered buying today, some of which came from milling interests, and staged a rally of almost a cent.

stronger technical position, having eliminated much weakly-held wheat.
Opening 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher.
May 96-97 1/2, July 93 1/2-1/2, all wheat contracts later rose above the pre-

Bars Student, Fined

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—A school board member at nearby Glandorf paid a $10 fine on a charge of keeping his daughter out of school. The board member, Eio J. Maag, admitted before Justice Fred M. Grant the girl missed 49 days of school this term, but said she had been ill since December. C. D. Zernulya, Putnam county school superintendent, brought the charge. Otto Ruhs, of Glandorf, similarly accused, also was fined $10.

Theater Attractions

Herbert music, long rated among the most popular by American music lovers, is the chief attraction of "The Great Victor Herbert," which shows tonight and Saturday at the State theater.

Twenty-seven familiar melodies written by the Irish-American composer about the early 1900's, many of them taken from his best-known operettas and musical comedies, are heard in the picture, which stars Walter Connolly as the composer, with Allan Jones and Mary Martin in romantic roles.

Mary Martin, who made such a success as the "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" songstress on Broadway last year, has the role of Louise, a Herbert star for whom his operetta "Louise" was written. Allan Jones has the part of Herbert's male singing star, who marries Louise and then loses her when her star grows brighter and his fades.

The debut of a 14-year-old girl, singing the role originally intended for Louise, brings them together again. Miss Martin's voice, originally trained for light opera, records beautifully in the number of songs she does in the picture, both solo and duets.

Young Susanna Foster, 14-year-old daughter of a former Chicago stock broker, has one of the outstanding voices to be presented through films in recent years, yet until a few months ago had never had a voice lesson in her life. The accomplishment of the young coloratura soprano singing notes from high C to B flat has won her wide attention.

The Grand theater attraction tonight and Saturday is a Three Mesquites western, "Heroes of the Saddle," with Robert Livingston, Duncan Renaldo and Raymond Hatton in the title roles.

PALMER ASKING FOR RE-ELECTION

Ray Palmer, Barnesville newspaper publisher, today announced his candidacy for re-nomination as state senator from this district, at the Republican primary on Tuesday, May 14. Palmer is now serving his first term in the state senate, representing the district comprised of Columbiana, Jefferson, Harrison and Belmont counties.

During his first term he was a member of the following five committees of the senate: Finance, agriculture, public health, political sub-divisions and military affairs.

Palmer had the distinction of being the only first-term legislator on the powerful senate finance committee, and was also the only first-term named as chairman of a senate committee, the committee on military affairs. He was also vice-chairman of the committee on agriculture.

Shortly before the regular session of the legislature ended in June, he was appointed on a special senate education committee which was authorized to formulate plans to meet on a state-wide basis the educational needs of the youth of the state. This committee is to report to the next session of the legislature.

First carload of limestone hauled on the Pennsylvania between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

He received $1.15 per day for his work. Later he was in a section gang, of whom El Hilsey is the only other one now living. He tells of an interesting experience of helping to drive 2,200 sheep, with three other men, across the country through Mercer county, Pa. For some time he worked for Marshal Rufus Ney, his job being to light the oil street lamps in Columbiana and then blow them out at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Fesler, was born at Columbiana Aug. 14, 1859. She is one year older than Mr. Weaver. Her mother died when she was a young girl and she kept house for her father until she was married. She went to the local Grace Reformed church when a girl. They have no children.

All three couples are in splendid health for their ages. None of them have any hired help, all doing their own work.

CALLS NEBRASKA CATTLE COUNTRY

Soil Never Intended To Be Tilled, Former Governor Says

COLUMBUS, Feb. 2.—Sam R. McKelvie, Nebraska cattleman and former governor, declared today that dust storms in the Sandhills are of this state resulted from failure of this state resulted from failure of this state resulted from failure of this state.

In an address prepared for a Farmers' week audience at Ohio State university, McKelvie asserted "The Nebraska Sandhills region is incomparable as a cattle country."

"God intended the terrain there to be left green side up, and those who violated that rule saw their land wafted away on the wings of the wind," he said.

The former governor is owner of the "By-the-Way" ranch at Wood lake, Neb., and president of the Sandhills Feeder Cattle Producers, Valentine, Neb.

Plays Politics

"Perhaps the time I spent in politics caused me the more to seek the company of contented cows," he commented.

McKelvie said cattle breeding required "discriminating study."

"There is a royal road to greatness in the purebred business but it is not found by the breeder who looks at the pedigree without regard to the animal."

Louis J. Taber, master of the national grange, and Wheeler McMillen, president of national farm chemurgic council, were other speakers on yesterday's grange day program.

CHEMISTRY TAPS OIL FIELDS NOW

New Methods Determine Actual Existence Of Fields

NEW YORK.—Chemistry is making its bid in industry as a major oil-finding tool alongside geology and geophysics, according to the American Chemical Society.

A report printed in the Chemical Bulletin, publication of the society's Chicago section, said that an "interesting" point about the "geochemical" tool, as compared with geophysical methods, was that "while the latter determined only geological structures which are favorable to the accumulation of oil but which may or may not actually contain oil, the geochemical methods apparently determine the actual existence of oil fields."

School Assembly Speaker

An interesting account of Australia was given by Dr. James Marshall in an address to Salem High school students at an assembly Thursday afternoon.

The speaker, a native of Australia, discussed the economic and social conditions of the country as well as plant and animal life there. The lecture was illustrated by colored slides.

"If this is proved by the test of time," the report said, "it will mean that chemistry, rather than physics, has been the first science to provide an actual method of determining from the surface the presence, and not merely the possible presence of deep-seated petroleum reservoirs."

The most popular method of using geochemistry, it was said, was to analyze soil itself rather than gas pumped from the soil. Soil samples are taken at or near the surface and light hydrocarbon components are driven off under vacuum. In analyzing for heavy components, such as waxes, the report said, samples are extracted and analyzed in various ways.

"The analytical procedures used are largely secret," it was explained, "but it is known that vapor pressure methods, micro-chemical ultimate analysis, X-ray spectrum, mass spectrum, Raman spectrum, and infra-red spectrum methods, colorimetric methods and a great variety of other techniques have all been used or tried."

SANITARY ADDS NEW HONORS TO LEAGUE RECORD

Cops Third Round Title In Class A; Baptists Win "B" Laurels

Two champions were crowned in Class A and Class B league basketball games at the Memorial building last night.

The National Sanitary, winner of the Class A loop's second round title, added the third round championship to its record by defeating Demings, 42 to 32. It was the Sanitary's 10th straight victory and its fifth win of the third round.

The Baptists became champion of the Class B league's first half when Smith's Creamery eliminated the Carroll Cadets from the championship race, 26 to 22. The Cadets needed a win over Smith's to tie the Baptists for the first half title.

Toy With Deming

Coming to life in the second quarter after trailing by two points at the end of the first period, the Sanitary toyed with the hapless Deming team to win in a romp. The Sanitary led by six points at halftime, seven points at the end of the third period and increased its advantage to 10 points in the last quarter.

Al Catlos and Bob Jeffries paced the Sanitary scoring, counting 12 and 11 points, respectively. John Lutsch led Demings with nine points.

The defeat was the 15th in a row for the unfortunate Pumpmakers, who have yet to record a victory in league competition.

The victory enabled the Sanitary to finish the third round undefeated, giving the Enamelware lads clear title to the round championship.

Rally Falls Short

The Carroll Cadets, fighting to gain a tie for the first half title in Class B, staged a fast fourth-quarter rally, but failed to overcome the big lead Smith's Creamery led up in the first three periods.

The Creamery quintet gained a four-point lead in the first quarter, boosted its margin to seven points in the second quarter and continued to increase its advantage in the third period to lead 20 to 10 going into the fourth frame.

By defeating the Cadets, Smith's Creamery gave the Baptists the Class B loop's first half championship. The Baptists, who finished their first half campaign last Tuesday with a tie, won the title.

Other league games last night saw the Althouse Motors swamp the Ohio State Employment Service, 42 to 29, in Class A and the Carroll Cadets defeat the Christians, 28 to 19, in Class B.

PATTY TO FACE BETTY JAMESON

Leading Women Golfers Clash In Semi-Final Match In Tourney

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 2. — Having recovered somewhat from the terrible near-freezing temperatures of last weekend, the citizens of Miami and their winter visitors were out in warm sunshine today to follow what promised to be one of the best women's golf matches in recent years.

Meeting in the 36-hole final of the annual Miami Biltmore tournament were Betty Jameson of San Antonio, the national champion, and Patty Berg of Minneapolis, four-time previous winner of this event. The match carried exceptional interest.

After some years of development, the two girls now apparently have reached the peak of their form. Without much doubt, they are the best in the country. Some veteran lockers at women's golf believe they are the best pair, day in and day out, that this country ever has produced.

Neither had much difficulty reaching the final here. Patty simply breezed through her opponents, while Miss Jameson was extended only by Dorothy Kirby, the Atlanta star.

Though the Texas girl holds the national title, today's match offered her an opportunity to make it official. For when she won her crown last summer, Patty was at home recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

They played each other twice before in recent years, each winning a decision.

QUAKERS MEET PEABODY TEAM IN GAME HERE

Phil Cozad Breaks Into Salem Lineup At Forward Post

A revised lineup will be used by Coach Herbert H. Brown when he sends his Salem High school basketball team against a rangy Pittsburgh Peabody quintet on local hardwoods at 8 tonight.

Attempting to put new life into the Quakers offense, Coach Brown has taken Phil Cozad, a junior, off the reserve team and inserted him in the first string lineup in place of Mike Thomas.

Cozad, who has been doing a good job at center for the reserves, may win himself a steady job with the varsity if he shows up well against Peabody. He is expected to start at a forward position and will probably hold down the pivot post on offense.

Work Corners of Floor

Les Knepp, regular center, who has been playing the pivot position on offense, will work the corners of the floor in the Quakers' attack along with Forward Bob Jaeger.

Glenn (Dinty) McLaughlin and Bob Shoe, guards, will direct the offense from mid-court. McLaughlin will be playing his next-to-last game for the Quakers. He will become ineligible for further scholastic competition Feb. 11 when he will be 20 years old.

The Quakers, who have played 500 ball in winning five games and losing five, will be after their sixth victory. It will be the first time a Salem squad has met a Pittsburgh team in scholastic basketball competition.

The Quakers' record for 10 games lists victories over Lisbon, Youngstown Chaney, Youngstown Rayen, Youngstown South and East Palestine. They have lost to Ravenna, the Alumni, Dover, Alliance and Warren. Two of the games were lost by one-point margins, while the Warren defeat was suffered in an overtime game.

Peabody Better Record

The Peabody passers, who will be playing their first game outside of the Pittsburgh area this season, have a better record than the Quakers, boasting five wins in nine games. They are tied for second place in their section of the Pittsburgh scholastic basketball league.

Forwards Wilcox and Feld are the leading threats of the Peabody quintet while Center Shelton, a six-foot three-inch lad, is considered dangerous because his height gives him a big advantage in working under the baskets.

The Pittsburgh team will arrive on the 6:35 train and will leave on the 9:36 train. The starting time for the game has been moved up from 8:30 to 8 to give the Peabody squad plenty of time to catch the train for the return trip.

The Salem reserves will face the Salem Hi-Y club in the preliminary game, starting at 6:45.

GOLDEN GLOVES FINALS TONIGHT

32 Boxers to Battle In Cleveland Tourney For Titles

CLEVELAND, Feb. 2. — Thirty-two crack boxers, including five from outside Cleveland, will battle tonight in the finals of the annual Golden Gloves tournament.

Lorain has two representatives, Mansfield one and Akron one in the title bouts in the open division. Victors will advance to the Chicago Tournament of Champions and the national A. A. U. contests in Boston.

Max Schindler, of Lorain, the only defending champion in the tournament, fights Tony Lanese for the 126-pound crown; George George, also of Lorain, meets lightweight Bobby Berry; 135-pound Beauford Glover, of Mansfield, tangles with Jerry Fienla, and Buddy Smallwood, of Akron, encounters Ernie Mossman, in the 112-pound class.

Vincent Raines, of Akron, will fight James Bloom for the title in the 135-pound novice division. All bouts are set for three rounds.

Must Not Fight The Customers

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 2.—You've got to fight, if you want to enter the ring professionally in Pennsylvania, but at the same time, you can't go around socking the customers.

The Pennsylvania athletic commission made that clear when it slapped penalties on a boxer and a wrestler yesterday.

At the one extreme, it found, was Joe Wagner of Cleveland. Commissioner George J. Jones, Jr., said Wagner "waltzed" through a boxing match with Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia at Wilkes-Barre Jan. 30. The pugilist drew a six-months suspension.

On the other hand, Sammy Cohen was barred from wrestling in the Keystone state for 30 days because, Jones said, the grappler took a poke at a fan after he climbed out of the ring at Harrisburg.

CARROLL AMONG STATE LEADERS

Post Eighth Victory By Defeating Denison 38 to 32

(By Associated Press)

John Carroll nestled among the leaders of the Ohio basketball race today as a result of a 38 to 32 victory over Denison.

The triumph was the eighth in 11 games for the Cleveland club and its second Ohio conference decision in three starts. Miami tops the state-wide standings with 9 and 1. The score was tied five times in the first half, but the Blue Streaks left the court with a 19 to 17 edge. The victors clinched the verdict in the final five minutes.

Jack Jones, Denison sophomore guard, tallied 11 points, and John Freeman, Carroll forward, 10.

Eighth Loss

Ohio Northern handed hapless Heidelberg its eighth consecutive conference defeat by winning at Ada 51 to 44. The Polar Bears, posting their fifth victory in eight league contests, were on top at intermission, 31 to 10.

Hiram held Kent State to 24 to 22 in the first half, but faltered in the late periods as the Flashes marked up their seventh decision, 47 to 35. Max Conner, Akron guard, paced the Kent score with 12 points, and Wilfred Day, Hiram center, had 10.

Fenn was unable to protect a 13 to 12 half-time lead in its game in Cleveland against Detroit Tech and lost 34 to 27. DeSales shaded Lawrence Tech of Detroit, 43 to 42, to take the lead in the Michigan-Ontario conference.

Morris On Team

Morris was a star for the Peddie junior varsity football team last fall.

MILLROSE TRACK MEET ATTRACTS STAR ATHLETES

Entry List Studded With Champions; Mile Run To Be Feature

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Any aspiring trackman facing the starter at the Millrose games Saturday who doesn't own a championship of some sort will be about as welcome as a spectator who doesn't own a ticket.

The big meet that opens the Madison Square Garden season—this is the 33rd renewal of the event—has an entry list studded with champions of all descriptions, and a finer field would be hard to imagine.

The Wanamaker mile, is the feature. Entered are Glenn Cunningham, six-time winner and holder of the world indoor mile mark; Charles Fenske, the Princeton mile winner; Louis Zamperini, NCAA and IC-4A champion

BOWLING RESULTS

The leading Smith's Creamery and second-place Washingtonville Odd Fellows remained two games apart in the Commercial league at the Grate Recreation alleys last night as both teams won three games.

The top-ranking Creamery five swept aside the Leetonia Eagles, while the Odd Fellows posted three wins over the Salem Polo Club.

Merit Shoes continued to hold third place by winning three games from the Ohio Bell on a forfeit. Other Commercial league matches saw the Crescen Machine win two games from E. W. Bliss Co. Berg Bretzels took two games from the Trades Class and People's Lumber gain two wins over the Jaycee All-Stars.

Three victories over the Structural Dept. enabled the Draftsmen to remain in first place in the Electric Furnace league. The Purchasing Dept. gained three wins over the Shippers to move into a tie for second place.

In other Electric Furnace matches, the Transformers climbed out of last place by taking three games from the Machinists and the Office jumped into fourth position on the strength of two wins over the Electricians.

Two rivals from the National Sanitary Co. plant the Foremen and the Enamellers, clashed in a special match at the Grate alleys with the Foremen gaining a close victory, 2251 to 2214.

Dykes Is Ready For 1940 Season

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. — Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox, whose controversies with umpires last season resulted in his being tossed from six games, suspended once and fined twice, announced today he's fully prepared for the 1940 campaign.

"In addition to holding a firm resolution to be thrown out of not more than four games next season," Dykes said, "I'm now in possession of a very valuable document. Whenever an umpire comes charging up to me I'll just throw up one hand, whip this card out of my pocket and calmly say: 'Just a minute now, mister umpire.'"

The card attests that James J. Dykes is an honorary member in good standing of the Professional Baseball Umpires' association of Southern California.

SYNOPSIS

Jack Douglas returns to his Mir-acle Mesa ranch, after an absence of six years, to find it on the verge of ruin by a band of killers called "The Raiders," who are driving the ranchers off their property. His Aunt Ines and fiancée, Lola, re-joice at his homecoming, feeling that they now have a master to look after them. Dona Ines said if it were not for Ed Paxton, the ranch foreman, she would not have known where to turn. All about is a feeling of restlessness and distrust. His first day home, Jack goes riding with his vaquero and friend, Frank Baker. The latter says the miners in Cobre jump the water rights of the ranchers and that the cattlemen are doing nothing about it. "What we need is a he-man boss. We need you!" he tells Jack. Frank points to an adobe dwelling in the canyon, saying: "There may be something there, adding to our troubles. It's the meeting place of the Brother-hood. Nearly every peon in the country belongs. He swears allegiance to the Brotherhood instead of the man who employs him." A tattered peon shuffles down the path. "One of our own herders," Baker remarks and pointing to a small tent nearby adds, "He stays there." Leaving Baker, Douglas goes to visit his old friend, Forest Ranger Sam Record who warns Jack that he is one of three ranch-ers marked for death by The Raiders. As to the other two, Bradshaw left the country and Wilson is dead. Douglas refuses to run, how-ever, so the ranger advises him to "trust no one." The head of The Raiders, Record says, is a giant Chinese known as "The Yellow Killer." Jack's dinner guests that evening are Alison Neale, owner of the neighboring ranch, whose father was killed by The Raiders, Father Bodine of the border mission, and his artist nephew, Paul Bodine, who has an interest in the Cobre mines. Talk turns to Cobre and The Raiders but remembering Record's warning "Trust no one," Jack is careful not to commit himself. Ed Paxton interrupts the party with the news that Frank Baker has been killed by The Raiders.

CHAPTER X

As if from far away Jack heard Alison's words to Paxton. "You've got to do something to ride those murderers down," the girl was urging. "You can't just take my ride and go with you—I'll go. If they murdered Frank in broad daylight someone may have seen it." Paxton's face flushed. "You know as well as I do that every-body's afraid to talk. Baker was shot near the morado and I'm not going to snoop around there." He saw the look of open contempt in her eyes. "Get on," he challenged, "say what you're thinking." The clear voice answered, "a worthless coward." "No man would say that, Miss Neale." "No man would even speak to you." In a last desperate appeal she turned to Douglas. "When I heard you were coming back here, you brought me hope for the first time in years. I thought, I prayed you might be the leader all the valley is waiting for. No one will ever know what your coming meant to me, and I told myself if you were the man I had hoped for I would follow you to the end and my vaqueros with me." She passed a hand across her eyes. "Well, that's not important now. All that mat-ters for Miracle Mesa Ranch—your ranch. He died because he had the courage others lacked." A sob sil-enced her, and the pleading res-onant voice went on. "Just a few days ago I saw him and we talked about your coming. He was looking forward to the great things that were going to happen, once you were here. He was proud to be one of your riders. He boasted about you. And this is their answer. He'll never boast about you again. He's up there, silenced and done. Don't you see what it is? It's a challenge. They are asking you what you are going to do about it—and so am I. What answer are you going to make, Jack Douglas?" Cheeks flushed, she faced him, her whole body trembling, and looking down into that gravelly sup-plant face, an overwhelming desire seized him to have this undaunted girl as his ally in the fight that lay ahead. He wanted to tell her that from this moment on his life would be given to avenging Baker's death; that so long as the Miracle Mesa Ranch endured it would fight back with all its might. He wanted to tell her this, but again came the memory of Record's solemn words, "Trust no one. It is your only hope."

In the candlelight the white circle of faces watched him as if waiting. He saw the padre's faded eyes, that black figure of his aunt, and over Lola's shoulder the attentive face of Paul Bodine. They were waiting, and Alison—she most of all.

But—"Fight guile with guile," Record had said. Douglas drew a deep breath.

"I must think," His own voice sounded strangely irresolute. "We cannot do anything foolhardy." He saw the light in Alison's eyes die swiftly, and bitterly he turned away—he had condemned himself to the lone fight.

Almost at once his guests took their leave. Alison went to Lola's room, and changing into a riding habit, left without seeing Dou-glas again. Paul Bodine alone wait-ed until the others had departed, and as Jack walked with him to the door, he said, "We are going to be neighbors, Douglas—in these dif-ficult times I want you to know that anything I can do I shall do gladly."

Douglas looked down. "There seems so little to do in a moment like this." His voice was uncer-tainly itself.

But the moment Douglas' last guest had disappeared an instant change came over him. That air of uncertainty vanished, his shoulders straightened, and turning inside, he ran up the stairs. Lights were burn-ing in Lola's room and his aunt's, but the hacienda was silent, and going to his own room, he pulled from a drawer a .38 automatic in a slender holster. Buckling it beneath his coat, he drew on a pair of riding boots, and creeping down the stairs, passed quietly out into the night.

At the stable he switched on the light, chose a tall black horse among those tethered there, and quickly saddling, rode out the gate.

Driven by a need for action, he urged on his horse, yet his thoughts, swifter, still raced back to the cedarcovered knoll where he had stood before. He saw again the peon, heard once more that sing-song, "Buenos dias," and re-membered the malignant inten-tion of the man's eyes.

If that peon were part of the underground system of spies, could he be made to talk, could he some-how be made to point to those who had killed Frank Baker?

Abruptly, as if he had reached a decision, he turned his horse to-ward the foothills and hurried over the moonlit floor of the valley to-ward that grassy knoll where the peon's tent had been.

Tying his horse, Douglas ap-proached the edge of the clearing. Almost at once he made out the weather-bleached canvas shining like a white triangle in the moon-light, then halted in quick sur-prise—a light was burning inside.

Still as a statue, Douglas watched. Against the sloping canvas the shadow of a man loomed from within, then another shadow passed in sharp silhouette across the tent, and Douglas knew the herder was not alone. Stooping low, he circled, and keeping to the side opposite the entrance, came nearer. Muffled voices reached him, and once, in a tone louder than the rest he heard the words, "Miracle Mesa." Some-thing in the way the words were said, some overtone of contemptu-ous enmity, brought a surge of hot anger to the listening man outside, and despite the dictates of caution, he drew near the entrance until through the open flap he could look into the dimly lit interior. Three men were there. The peon, a cigarette between his lips, lay curled among the dingy blankets that served as a bed; the other two, unmistakably Americans, sat facing at the rear of the tent, so that Douglas could see only the tousled black hair of one and the broad, worn tsetson of the other.

Still too far away to hear, and this time dropping on the hands and knees, Douglas crept toward the back of the tent and now he couched within a few scant inches of the canvas wall.

He heard the scratching of a match, smelt the pungent smoke of Mexican tobacco, then a voice: "You're just lucky, Jose. For a tip like that the Chief will give you plenty. The Brotherhood will be meeting at the morada tonight, and if anything—"

A yelp of fear drowned the voice, followed by a volley of frantic barking, and almost at Douglas' feet a small dog stood shrilly sig-naling the presence of an intruder to his master within. The air quivered with that incessant warn-ing, and in quick response the three men inside started to their feet. Crouching, Douglas glanced behind him toward the sheltering fringe of trees—too far, he could not make it. Quick as a panther he darted to the entrance just as the first man emerged, the moonlight gleam-ing on a weapon in his hand. Be-fore the man could see what struck him he was knocked headlong, then almost in the same motion Douglas seized the flap, whirled it closed and flung the whole weight of his body against the flimsy tent.

With a tearing of canvas and a splintering of the ridgepole, the tent collapsed, Douglas on top, while beneath him amid a stream of curses two figures struggled vainly to tear away the enfolding fabric that held them like a net. Wildly the tent bulged and heaved with their frenzied contortions, the dog fled, yelping, toward the cover of the woods, and now the night was broken with two shots fired blindly through the canvas by one of the maddened captives.

Time to go. Running easily, Douglas gained the dark shelter of the trees and hurried to his horse, then mounted without so much as a look behind.

Riding beneath the pinons, keep-ing steadily down the slope, Dou-glas felt his anger mounting. But for a sheep herder's cur he might have learned the very thing he wanted to know beyond all else—the identity of Frank Baker's killers—and his mind went back to the few disjointed phrases he had heard, "the Chief—a meeting at the morado."

Suddenly he stopped in his tracks. Might not the Brotherhood, the se-cret organization that met in the morado, might there not be some connection between them and the raiders? It was barely likely, but even while he pondered the thought he found himself turning his horse toward the canyon. It had been near the morado that he and Baker had talked—it was toward there that had watched the sheep herder pass. There, perhaps lay Douglas' real starting point, and this very night offered him a better oppor-tunity to explore than might ever come again. Few would know him even if he were seen, and in the event of discovery he could say he was riding to the upper ranch for news of his murdered vaquero.

A half hour brought him to where the canyon widened into a broad amphitheater, and close against the opposite cliff Douglas saw the solitary dwelling he sought—the morada of the Brotherhood. There was something about the very place itself that aroused some instinctive hatred—it lay like a covert threat back from the trail, a low light gleaming inside, causing the window to glint vacantly out into the darkness, but the narrow door was tightly closed. Suddenly Douglas started—from somewhere within came the high notes of a flute, a long, shrill wailing that rose and fell, chilling his blood and causing his horse to move rest-lessly beneath him.
